STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

'Emu Cottage' in McKillop Street, Geelong is one of the early residences in the city limits surviving in a relatively intact condition. The original 7 room villa was erected prior to 1862 presumably for John Burke an early Geelong representative of the Italianate school of architectural design with the Tuscan porch a most distinctive feature. G. F. Link a noted educationist, scientist and for many years headmaster at the Matthew Flinder School, lived in the cottage at least until 1878. The cottage may date from the mid 1850s.
